The teachers (at CCC) are very good; the classes are perfect. You have the opportunity to share with people from other countries. They have a lot of services, support for the students, clubs, and organizations.

I major in Architecture at DVC. I strongly feel the learning environment here has helped me grow a lot. The professors I've met are very nice and always keen to help students to reach their goals. Lots of my friends from here transferred to their dream schools, and mine is Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

When I came here to Los Medanos College as an international student, we had an orientation week. There were other students to help you find friends or just to talk with them, so you have somebody in school. And now I'm doing that with the new students that are coming in.
